Mogiana is a region covering the Northeast state of São Paulo and also some areas in the state of Minas Gerais. Some of Brazil's best coffee's come from this area because of the natural conditions of altitude, climate, and ideal rainfall. These current offerings are Fine Cup (FC), the highest cup category in the Brazilian coffee grading system. Due to their relatively low acidity, creamy body and sweet flavors, these coffees are great in espresso blends.

CUPPING NOTES: Medium Acidity and Body, Chocolate, Red Cherry, Brown Sugar, Sweet Finish. Excellent Balance. A Great Example of what a Mogiana should be.

NOT JUST COFFEE, YOUR COFFEE.
